

PDF 15: JSP Expression Language (EL)

(Bonus — 10 questions)

1. What is the EL syntax format?

- a) #{ expression }
- b) ${ expression }
- c) @{ expression }
- d) %{ expression }

Answer: b

2. What is the main goal of JSP Expression Language?

- a) Replace HTML entirely
- b) Simplify accessing objects and their properties in JSP
- c) Add styling to JSP pages
- d) Replace Java Servlets

Answer: b

3. Which operator in EL is equivalent to Java's % (modulo)?

- a) rem
- b) mod
- c) modulo
- d) %%

Answer: b

4. Which operator in EL is equivalent to Java's / (divide)?

- a) divide
- b) over
- c) div
- d) quot

Answer: c

5. Before EL, what was needed to access an object attribute in JSP?

- a) JSTL tags only
- b) Type declaration, casting, and scripting language knowledge
- c) Only HTML forms
- d) Direct SQL queries

Answer: b

6. Which of the following is a valid EL literal?

- a) `${ "hello" }`
- b) `${ var hello }`
- c) `${ const true }`
- d) `${ null() }`

Answer: a

7. EL draws inspiration from which two languages?

- a) Java and Python
- b) JavaScript and XML path language (XPath)
- c) HTML and SQL
- d) Ruby and CSS

Answer: b

8. What does `${ 8*3 }` evaluate to in EL?

- a) `"8*3"`
- b) 11
- c) 24
- d) Error

Answer: c

9. EL supports automatic:

- a) CSS styling
- b) Database queries
- c) Type conversion

- d) Thread management

Answer: c

10. In EL, `${ p.name }` accesses:

- a) A method called `name()` on object `p`
- b) The `name` property of object `p` using implicit property access
- c) A global variable called `p.name`
- d) A session attribute named `p`

Answer: b