Public Speaking

Lecture 01: Introduction to Public Speaking

Prof. Binod Mishra

DEPARTMENT OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

What is Public Speaking?

- ❖ According to Merriam Webster Dictionary , Public Speaking is “the act or process of making speeches in public” or “the art of effective oral communication with an audience”
- ❖ “Speech is power: speech is to persuade , to convert, to compel” - Ralph Waldo Emerson
- ❖ To be successful, says business leader Midge Costanza, you must have “the ability to stand on your feet, either on a one-to-one basis or before a group, and make a presentation that is convincing and believable” (Lucas 34).

Advent of Public Speaking

- The inception of Public Speaking in Greece and Rome as a discipline dates 2,500 years ago.
- The famous Greek scholar Aristotle (384-322 BCE) laid the foundation in his treatise titled Rhetoric - the first book on Public Speaking.
- Roman educator Quintilian, Christian preacher St. Augustine, the medieval writer Christine de Pizan, British philosopher Francis Bacon, Nelson Mandela, Hillary Clinton and many others have magnified the power of public speaking.

Public Speaking and its Development

- ❑ 21st Century witnessed the advancements in the discourse of Public Speaking.
- ❑ Due to technical advancements, different forms of public speaking have surfaced and are thriving in the contemporary times.
- ❑ Besides the physical communication, new platforms for Public Speaking like Ted Talk, YouTube broadcasting, Video conferencing, and Podcasts are vested with the power to inspire, educate, entertain and persuade the viewers or the listeners.

Public Speaking as a Form of Communication

- Communication plays a chief role in public speaking.
- Effective communication is the backbone of public speaking.
- Effective communication ensures the message reaches the audience in its correct and desired form.
- Speaking with confidence is mandatory.
- Style of communication also plays an important role in public speaking.

Public Speaking Vs. Everyday Communication

- Public Speaking is not an everyday routine.
- Public speech is special and it is delivered on occasions of importance.
- Attributes of Public Speaking:
 - ✓ More structured and not spontaneous
 - ✓ Time constraint
 - ✓ Formal and Decent language
 - ✓ Proper body language and mannerism
 - ✓ Avoiding jargons, colloquial expressions or slangs
 - ✓ Avoiding non-lexical fillers

Public Speaking- An Exercise in Critical Thinking

- ✓ Ability to form your own judgments
- ✓ Analyze and understand different points of view
- ✓ Verify the facts
- ✓ Recognize a speaker's biased/unstated assumptions
- ✓ Broaden one's canvas of thoughts

Ingredients of Public Speaking

Beneficiaries

- There are more avenues to reach people than ever before, but there is no substitute for face-to-face communication

Domains of Public Speaking - I

Entrepreneurial Communication:

- Interviews
- Leadership
- Meetings
- Group Discussions
- Negotiations

Domains of Public Speaking- II

Classroom/ Scholarly Communication

- Student-teacher communication
- Elocutions
- Recitations
- Debates
- Conferences and Symposiums

Impediments to Public Speaking

- Nervousness
- Inept Delivery
- Lack of Coherence
- Negligent Listening
- Content divorced from Occasion

Advantages of Public Speaking in diverse fields

- Technical
- Financial
- Bureaucracy
- Aesthetic

Iconic Speech

"Long years ago we made a tryst with destiny, and now the time comes when we shall redeem our pledge, not wholly or in full measure, but very substantially. At the stroke of the midnight hour, when the world sleeps, India will awake to life and freedom. A moment comes, which comes but rarely in history, when we step out from the old to new, when an age ends, and when the soul of a nation, long suppressed, finds utterance..."

- Jawaharlal Nehru

“And now, as you graduate to begin anew, I wish that for you. Stay Hungry. Stay Foolish.”

- Steve Jobs

Lecture 02- Communication Process and Roadblocks

Prof. Binod Mishra

DEPARTMENT OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Communication as a Process

- Human communication process is an essential systematic method and means to transfer information as well as emotions.
- Past surveys indicate that an individual spends 75% of their time in some form of communication activity, i.e. Listening, Speaking, Reading, and Writing.

Raymond Ross emphasizes the need to bring awareness of the speech communication of mankind through which, “Our behaviour will increasingly reflect openness, tolerance for ambiguity, concern for context, caution with language, and greater respect for feedback, mutual influence and our dependence upon one another.

Communication is a Social Function

- ❖ Humans as a social being depend on communicative acts to carry out their personal and public life in a better manner.
- ❖ Communication provides a channel for two-way influence between individuals or groups.
- ❖ An effective communication comprises a well-defined cause with an intended effect.
- ❑ Functions of Communication:
 - To inform
 - To persuade
 - To motivate

Purposes of Speech Communication

- The three main functions of communication posits itself as the purpose to attain certain intended goals of a speaker through his speech communication.
- The three general purposes of a public speech shall be correlated to specific goals to be achieved:

01	To inform	• Clarity • Interest • Understanding
02	To persuade	• Belief • Action • Stimulation
03	To entertain	• Interest • Enjoyment • Humor

Lasswell's Model of Communication

WHO
IN WHAT CHANNEL
TO WHOM
WITH WHAT EFFECT

Types of Communication

Verbal Communication

- ❖ In Verbal Communication, words are used to convey any message.
- ❖ It is of two types: Written and Oral Communication
- ❖ Examples of Written Communication: Letters, Texting, E-mails, Books
- ❖ Examples of Oral Communication: Face-to-face conversations, Speech, Host on Radio, Interview, Group Discussion etc.

Non-Verbal Communication

- ❖ In Non-Verbal Communication, body language is employed to convey any message.
- ❖ Examples of Non-Verbal Communication:
Waving, Smile, Head Nod, Handshakes, Hugs, Sign Language

Classification of Communication

Choice/Medium of Communication

- Choice of right medium of communication is essential
- Wrong medium doesn't allow the intended meaning to reach to the targeted audience
- Value of the medium in the given communication situation is called media richness (Bovee 168).
- Its determinants are:
 - The ability to convey a message with the help of multiple informational cue.
 - The ability to get feedback and develop personal focus.

Media Richness Continuum

Public Speaking as a Communicative Act

Public Speaking is a vital skill for multiple reasons. Some of the reasons are as follows:

➤ To win over a crowd

- Public Speaking is an essential skill both inside and outside the workplace. Speaking with poise and confidence can win over numerous clients and even oppositions.
- Language should be fluid, intriguing and should evoke curiosity.
- Making forward strides is equally essential in order to make a strong case.

➤ To motivate people

- Public Speaking is vested with the power of motivation where one can influence someone to stop doing something, change a behaviour, and to obtain goals.
- It should be exciting enough for peers, customers, employees, coworkers.

➤ To inform

- Being informative is a vital component of Public Speaking.
- Be it demonstrating or convincing, facts are essential to support any form of persuasion

Roadblocks in Communication

- ❑ There are different types of communication barriers which dilute the effectiveness of communication and even jeopardize the whole cause.

1. Language barrier

- a. Use of casual language. (Informal)
- b. Excessive use of jargon (Too formal)
- c. Lack of clarity in words chosen. (Ambiguity)

2. Psychological barrier

- a. Argumentative mindset.
- b. Narrow mindedness.
- c. Lack of emotional awareness.

Contd...

3. Cultural barriers:

- a. Lacking cultural sensitivity towards the audience.
- b. Carrying cultural stereotypes.
- c. Name-calling and Abusive language.

4. Physical barriers:

- a. Noisy environment/ audience.
- b. Poor architecture of seminar/ lecture halls.
- c. Faulty channel. Technical issues.

Contd...

5. Attitudinal barriers:

- a. Personality conflicts.
- b. Lack of self-confidence.
- c. Motivational deficiency.

6. Interpersonal barriers:

- a. Fear for criticism
- b. Defensive speech communication.
- c. Lack of mutual-confidence.

Remedies to Communication Roadblocks

- Adopt an audience-centered approach
- Encourage candid communication climate
- Reduce the number of levels
- Facilitate feedback
- Commit to ethical communication
- Compose efficient messages
- Be generous and patient
- Avoid making false assumptions

“The single biggest problem in communication is the illusion that it has taken place.”

- George Bernard Shaw

Lecture 03- Rhetoric in Public Speaking

Prof. Binod Mishra

DEPARTMENT OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

“Rhetoric may be defined as the faculty of observing in any given case the available means of persuasion”.
Aristotle in Rhetoric
(trans. by W. Rhys Roberts)

This Photo by Unknown Author is licensed under CC BY-SA

Aristotelian Modes of Persuasion

❑ Ethos, Pathos and Logos

- ❖ That future is not one of ease or resting but of incessant striving so that we may fulfill the pledges we have so often taken and the one we shall take today. The service of India means, the service of the millions who suffer.
- ❖ “For the price of a cup of coffee, you can feed a starving child.”
- ❖ This is no time for petty and destructive criticism, no time for ill will or blaming others. We have to build the noble mansion of free India where all her children may dwell.

The essence of sophistry consists in the moral purpose, the deliberate use of fallacious arguments. In Dialectic, the dialectician has the power or faculty of making use of them when he pleases; when he does so deliberately, he is called a sophist. In Rhetoric, this distinction does not exist; he who uses sound arguments as well as he who uses false ones are both known as rhetoricians

Historical Background

- The eminent Roman orators, Cicero (106-43 BCE) and Quintilian (35-95 CE), added significantly to the study of rhetoric.
- Cicero tried to resolve the perpetual debate regarding content versus delivery in oration. He argued for a balance between the style and the substance - harmony of the rhetorical perspective and the oratorical perspective. He propounded the five canons of Rhetoric for curating a persuasive speech: Invention, Disposition, Style, Memorization, and Delivery.
- Quintilian, another significant rhetorician believed that knowledge could be acquired through proper education.

- In American Revolution, the rhetorical studies of ancient Greece and Rome were resurrected as speakers and teachers looked to Cicero and others to inspire defense of the new republic.
- John Quincy Adams of Harvard advocated for the democratic advancement of the art of rhetoric.
- Throughout the 20th century, rhetoric developed as a concentrated field of study with the establishment of public speaking courses in high schools and universities. The courses in speaking apply fundamental Greek theories (such as the modes of persuasion: ethos, pathos, and logos).

Rhetoric: Later Trends

- Francis Bacon aimed to bring the power of language under rational control when he said, “. . . the duty of rhetoric is to apply Reason to Imagination for the better moving of the will.”
- Later trends in literature are:
 - Epistemological
 - Belletristic
 - Elocutionist

Contd...

- The Epistemological Tradition comprised Campbell's The Philosophy of Rhetoric (1776) and Richard Whately's Elements of Rhetoric (1828) where they brought forth their knowledge of classical rhetoric and contemporary psychology to create rhetoric based on an understanding of human nature. They inaugurated audience- centered approaches to rhetoric and initiated the way for contemporary investigations with audience analysis.

- The Belles Lettres Movement, marked a departure from the rationalists and elocutionists, valued aesthetic qualities of writing over informative value.
- The Elocutionary Movement focused primarily on delivery and was widely publicized as planned gestures, loud and dramatic movements. These trends faded with time.
- ❑ In early twentieth century, however, National Communication Association that was formed in the United States by a small group of public speaking teachers who wanted to restore the rich qualities and scope that were once attributed to rhetoric.

TYPES OF PERSUASIVE SPEECHES

Judicial Rhetoric

- Establishes facts and judgments about the past
- Example- detectives at a crime scene

Demonstrative Rhetoric

- Makes a proclamation about the present situation
- Example- wedding speeches

Deliberative Rhetoric

- Focuses on the future
- Employed by Politicians, Activists

Psychology of Persuasion

- A public speaker's personality is entitled with the goal to persuade and determine audience's mood and motivation.
- Kluckhohn and Murray have pointed out four personality determinants for persuader as follows:
 - ❖ Constitution (outward appearance)
 - ❖ Group membership (adaptability)
 - ❖ Role
 - ❖ Situation

Persuasion Filters and Barriers Chart (Ross 1977)

Theories of Persuasion

- ❑ Raymond Ross in his text on Speech Communication affirms that rhetoric is “the method of giving effect to the truth” which can also “be taught”.
- ❑ According to classical rhetoric theory, there are five basic tasks in preparing and sending persuasive messages, which are referred to as “canons”:
 - ❖ Invention: Content of message and audience’s needs
 - ❖ Arrangement: of the whole speech and crux message
 - ❖ Style: of language with regards to the audience
 - ❖ Memory: of speech content in sequential order
 - ❖ Delivery: of message through voice and body action

Theories of Persuasion

Congruity theory of persuasion:

- This theory positions persuasion as a means to seek common agreement and harmony.
- Given the established differences between individuals, a public speaker could act as a mediator to bring people together in congruity.

Balance theory:

- As the name suggests, the theory suggests persuasion as a tool to reduce tension due to imbalance of ideas, motivation and action through speech.
- It is achieved by “modifying either the affective (feelings) or cognitive (belief) element of an attitude.” (Ross 274)

Rhetorical Devices

- A rhetorical device is a technique that is used by a speaker or an author for conveying a particular message to the audience in such a way that it provokes an emotional response to a particular action.
- It is a linguistic tool, whose employment can be used to construct an argument or make an existing one more compelling.

Types of Rhetorical Devices

Alliteration(L) This device is the repetition of sounds of two or more words placed nearby in any sentence. This is usually applied to consonants, employed to emphasize and draw attention.

For example, Five miles meandering with a mazy motion.
(Coleridge).

And the balls like pulses beat;/For the sky and the sea, and the sea and the sky/Lay like a load on my weary eye. (Coleridge, Rime of the Ancient Mariner)

If two witches were watching
two watches,
which witch
would watch
which watch?

Contd...

Anadiplosis (Gk ‘doubling’) In this rhetorical device, there is a repetition of the last word in a phrase at the beginning of the next phrase or sentence.

For example, Fear leads to anger, anger leads to hate and hate leads to suffering. –Yoda, Star Wars

Labour and care are rewarded with success, success produces confidence, confidence relaxes the industry, and negligence ruins the reputation. (Dr Johnson’s Rambler no. 21)

Antistrophe-(Gk ‘ counter turning’) While using this device, there is a specific type of repetition of words at the end of consecutive phrases/clauses/sentences.

“What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny compared to what lies within us.” Ralph Waldo Emerson

“Selfishness is not living as one wishes to live. It is asking others to live as one wishes to live...” (Wilde)

Antithesis-(Gk.) There are two juxtaposed ideas in one sentence which are opposite and contrasting.

For example, “Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country.”

“Crafty men condemn studies; simple men admire them; and wise men use them.”
(Bacon)

Also, this term is closely associated with thesis and synthesis.

This Photo by Unknown Author is licensed under CC BY

Anaphora (Gk ‘carrying up or back’)- a rhetorical device involving the repetition of a word or group of words in successive clauses.

And so if we praise him, our words seem rather small, and if we praise him, to some extent we also praise ourselves. (J.L. Nehru)

Diacopec (Gk.) - a repeated word or phrase split up by another word, to display strong emotion.

For example, Free at last! Free at last! Thank god we are free at last! (Martin Luther King)

"Happy families are all alike; every unhappy family is unhappy in its own way. (Leo Tolstoy)

Ellipsis- This particular device has a few words, depicting an event that is omitted to highlight the narrative gaps for readers.

For instance, “Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth...the proposition that all men are created equal.” (Abraham Lincoln’s Gettysburg Address)

Litotes (Gk litos) This is a commonly used device in conversations where double negatives that present a positive statement. An understatement for emphasis,

For example, ‘She is not thin’, ‘You are not unfamiliar with speech’.

“He hath not failed to pester us with message” - Hamlet (Act 1 Scene 2)

Hyperbole (Gk overcasting) A commonly used expression of mere exaggeration, this device is often used to draw attention to the gravity of the matter or to make a strong point.

For instance, ‘I have not seen him for ages.’

“I’ll love you till the ocean/ is folded and hung up to dry” - W.H. Auden in his poem “As I Walked Out One Evening.”

The Power of Rhetoric

“I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.

I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia, the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood. I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. I have a dream today.” (Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.)

"THE RHETORIC IS THE KEY TO THE CHARACTER.
IT'S THE VERBAL MUSIC OF THE PIECE."

Lecture 04- Role of Listening in Public Speaking

Prof. Binod Mishra

DEPARTMENT OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Hearing Vs Listening

- Hearing, according to Merriam-Webster is the “process, function, or power of perceiving sound; specifically: the special sense by which noises and tones are received as stimuli.”
- Listening, on the other hand, means “to pay attention to sound; to hear something with thoughtful attention and to give consideration.”(Merriam-Webster)

Hearing

Accidental

Involuntary

Effortless

Listening

Focused

Voluntary

Intentional

Listening as a lost art

Stephen Lucas illustrates the difference between listening and hearing as follows in the Chapter 3 of The Art of Public Speaking as follows:

- ❑ “Hearing is a physiological process, involving the vibration of sound waves on our eardrums and the firing of electrochemical impulses from the inner ear to the central auditory system of the brain.”
- ✓ We grasp only 50 percent of what we hear and we can remember only 10 percent of the original message.

Importance of Listening

- ✓ Listening is the other half of talking. In fact, listening is the first step for speaking.
- ✓ Of the four basic skills of learning, i.e. Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing - it is evident that listening occupies the larger part.
- ✓ Studies reveal that students with the highest grade are usually great listeners showing great attention during lectures and discussions.
- ✓ It also plays a significant role in developing workplace culture and even forming healthy interpersonal relationships.

Hearing
Filtering
Interpreting
Responding
Remembering

Listening as a Process

- It begins with hearing.
- According to Ernest D. Nathan, “Perceptive listening is a conscious cognitive effort involving primarily the sense of hearing reinforced by other senses and leading to understanding. When perceptive listening is inspired by a sincere desire to understand, it becomes more than a sensory process. It is an attitude well expressed as a listening spirit.”

This Photo by Unknown Author is licensed under CC BY-NC-ND

Effective Listening Situations

- ❖ Conversation
- ❖ Group discussion
- ❖ Negotiation
- ❖ Interviews
- ❖ Meetings
- ❖ Speeches

Advantages of Listening

- Builds trust and strong relationships
- Prevents you from missing important information
- Enables identification or anticipation of problems
- Empowers the individual as a leader
- Completes the Communication

This Photo by Unknown Author is licensed under CC BY-SA-NC

Listening is also Communicating

- Listening is the ability to accurately receive and interpret messages in the communication process.
- Listening is key to all effective communication. Without the ability to listen effectively, messages are easily misunderstood.

Active Listening

Basic Modes of Listening

➤ Combative Listening

Listeners tend to be more conscious of their own viewpoints than the content delivered by the speaker. They deliberately draw attention and are mostly immature listeners.

➤ Attentive Listening

Listeners have the patience to instill whatever is being uttered by the speaker. They neither check the facts presented by the speaker nor mistrust them. They lack independent thinking and easily get carried away by what has been said.

➤ Reflective Listening (most effective type of listening)

Listeners are alert, actively opine and evaluate everything delivered by the speaker and reciprocate in the best possible manner.

Degrees of Active Listening

Feedback in Active Listening

- Key component of Active Listening
- Corrective mechanism; helps an individual to learn how to match behaviour with original intention
- Active Listener should refrain from imposing unwelcomed responses

Advantages of Listening

- Listening is an essential element of learning.
- Child learns sounds before s/he learns to write.
- Linguists believe language is not taught but caught.
- Listening benefits the speaker as well as the listener.

Impediments to Listening

- ❑ Prejudging
- ❑ Ambiguity
- ❑ Illusion
- ❑ Rigidity
- ❑ Abstracting
- ❑ Slant
- ❑ Premature evaluation
- ❑ Hurried conclusions
- ❑ Cognitive dissonance

How to listen effectively?

- ✓ Pay full attention and respect.
- ✓ Listen actively - one thing at a time
- ✓ Focusing on the message than the details.
- ✓ Look out for evidence supporting the main message.
- ✓ Develop note-taking skills.

- ✗ Concentrate not on the speaker's delivery or appearances, but the speech.
- ✗ Avoid presumptions and judgements.
- ✗ Avoid distractions - both physical and mental.

“Hearing is through ears, but listening is through the mind.”

Public Speaking

Lecture 05- Role of Ethics in Public Speaking

Prof. Binod Mishra

DEPARTMENT OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

On Ethics

- ❑ The Cambridge Dictionary of Philosophy states that the word ethics is “commonly used interchangeably with ‘morality’ ... and sometimes it is used more narrowly to mean the moral principles of a particular tradition, group or individual.”
- ❑ Richard William Paul and Linda Elder define ethics as “a set of concepts and principles that guide us in determining what behaviour helps or harms sentient creatures”.
- ❑ Paul and Elder state that most people confuse ethics with behaving in accordance with social conventions, religious beliefs and the law and don’t treat ethics as a stand-alone concept.

Contd...

- Ethics is moral philosophy.
 - It is the study of the values and guidelines.
 - Ethics deals with voluntary actions.
 - Ethical values are culturally-oriented.
- “Do unto others as you would have them do unto you.”

Ethos and Ethics

- As discussed in the previous lecture, ethos forms an indispensable corner of Aristotelian rhetorical triangle.
- The term ethos can be synonymously understood as “an appeal to ethics.”
- The conscience of the speaker plays a stronger part to establish the credibility of his/her speech.
- The nature of the effect caused by a speaker, be it good or bad, is solely determined by the ethical appeal of the speech.

Ethics in Public Speaking

- ❖ Public speaking shall rather be a rhetorical art of persuasion, than dubious trickery of manipulation.
- ❖ The speaker with the power of speech must be aware of his/her ethical responsibilities.
- ❖ Roman rhetorician Quintilian said “the ideal of speechmaking is the good person speaking well.”

Brutus' Speech

Be patient till the last.

Romans, countrymen, and lovers!

Hear me for my cause, and be silent, that you may hear: believe me for mine honour,
and have respect to mine honour,
that you may believe: censure me in your wisdom,
and awake your senses,
that you may the better judge. (Act III, Scene ii)

Antony's Speech

Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears;

I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him.

The evil that men do lives after them;
The good is oft interred with their bones;
So let it be with Caesar.

[...]

Come I to speak in Caesar's funeral.
He was my friend, faithful and just to me:
But Brutus says he was ambitious;
And Brutus is an honourable man. (Act
III, Scene ii)

VENI
VIDI
VICI

Ethical Guidelines for Public Speaking

- The speech, in general, should be for the benefit for the greater goodwill of listeners than the speaker's personal interests.
- Get the facts right: The more thorough and well researched the content is, lesser the chance of ethical deviance or dubiousness.
- Humankind relies and thrives on honesty and mutual trust. Thus, an ethical speaker should try to provide words of reliability.

Caution in Speech

A speaker must exercise caution while developing an ethically sound speech. S/he should refrain from the following:

- ❖ Cooked-up data or statistics.
- ❖ Equipping irrelevant quotes.
- ❖ Poor oral citation strength.
- ❖ Failing to bring the bigger picture.
- ❖ Lack of strong evidence to back their opinions.
- ❖ Insensitive to a particular individual/ socio-ethnic group and culture.
- ❖ Lacking dignity and politeness.

Plagiarism in Speech

- ❖ A strong speech shall arise from one's heart boosted with emotional feelings and intellectual fervour.
- ❖ However, if the speaker chooses to merely read a full speech, an excerpt or even a quote from a third-party and fails to acknowledge the source—then the speaker indulges in a serious ethical crime called plagiarism.
- ❖ An ideal speaker shall refrain from putting up a fake impression by stealing someone else's speech—which, in fact, defeats the purpose of public speaking i.e, to exchange one's own opinion and thoughts on the subject of a critical matter.

Types of Plagiarism

Stephen Lucas jots down three kinds of plagiarism in public speaking in his book “The Art of Public Speaking.”

 Global Plagiarism: It is a blatant theft of incorporating content completely from a third party source, without any acknowledgement.

3 types of Plagiarism

Contd...

- ❑ Patchwork Plagiarism: As the name suggests, it is stealing excerpts from multiple sources and combining it into your personal speech.
- ❑ Incremental Plagiarism: It includes usage of quotes or paraphrasing original ideas of others without due credits given.

One must be careful with the last form of plagiarism as it is most common mistake carried out by speakers when delivering public speeches.

Consequences of Plagiarism

- ❖ Public speaking as verbal talent posits itself as a “cause” with clear motive to “effect” the intended audience.
- ❖ And if the so-called “cause” is sourced to plagiarism in itself, then the latter “effect” shall be equally misleading.
- ❖ The consequences of a speaker getting charged of plagiarism is both interpersonal and intra-personal.
- ❖ The speaker shall lose credibility, power of speech, reputation and even considerable amount of money when sued for liability.

Oral Citations

- Quotes and paraphrases are inevitable part of a public speech.
- A speaker must refer to the words of great thinkers or novel ideas to back up their opinions and give credibility to their speech.
- Such reference to an individual or a particular source must be clearly routed for listener's convenience.

Ethical Listening

- If one end of the public speaking is held by the speaker, then the other end is completed by listeners.
- The clear-cut contact of message through channel, interferences and situation determines the efficiency of speech delivered.
- Listeners play an important role as much as speaker in order to make a public speech achieve its effect.

It blesseth him that gives and him that takes:
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest: it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown;
(Shakespeare)

How to be a good listener?

- ✓ Pay attention to the speaker during the limited time of speech.
- ✓ Listen to the speaker without any presumption or bias.
- ✓ Practice open-mindedness.
- ✓ Express eagerness to listen and motivate speaker's confidence.
- ✓ Refrain from indulging in other activities while speech is delivered.

Ways to be ethical

- ✓ Avoid Ethnocentrism
- ✓ Avoid misquoting
- ✓ Respect the audience
- ✓ Avoid alienating the audience
- ✓ Avoid being too personal
